

It is the goose break. We are finally going hunting, and we have a break from school! Adario and his family are getting ready. In fact, the whole town is getting ready. People are packing and loaded trucks leave town.

Adario's choice

We need gas and supplies.

Did you buy some chips?

The convoy arrives at the campsite by the lake after an ordinary trip.

The women immediately prepare the camp, kids play and men get ready.

We're going to the hunting site!

While men are hunting from the blinds,

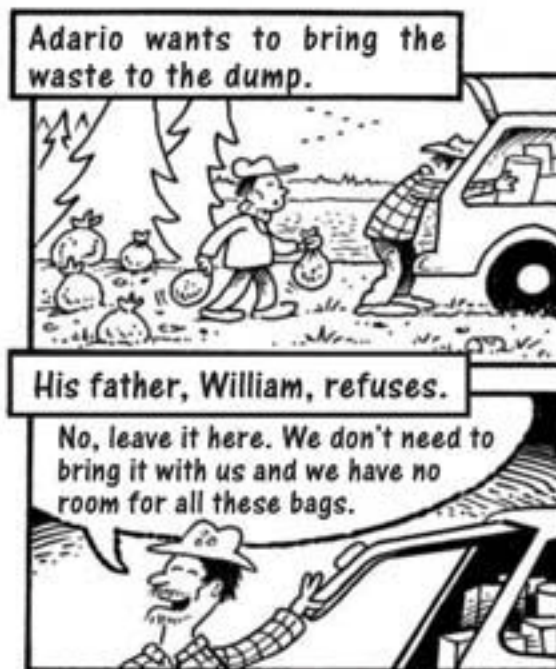

women clean the Canada geese brought back to the camp.

The waste added up after a week.

Come one kids, it's time to go.

Adario wants to bring the waste to the dump.

His father, William, refuses.

No, leave it here. We don't need to bring it with us and we have no room for all these bags.

Adario immediately retorts...

Yes, but what about environmental pollution, odours, and the fact that there will still be waste next year when we come back.

It's not biodegradable, it contains cans and plastic, and animals could hurt themselves!

Don't worry about that, look, everybody does it, so we don't need to bring back our waste.

Yes, but we could do it and set an example.

What do you think?
What will Adario do?